BIO / DESCRIPTION: Sioux Falls, South Dakota is the last place you would expect an internationally praised metallic rock band to come from. However, the city's isolation heightened the bands own creativity producing a sound so original that they literally carved their own niche in the hard music world with their previous two albums: "Lost Senses, More Innocence" and "Nodes Of Ranvier".

Combining hard hitting metallic riffs and catchy melodies "The Years To Come" grabs the attention of a wide range of music fans and erases the lines between rock and metal. NODES OF RANVIER's engaging live show alongside of bands such as BLEEDING THROUGH, NORMA JEAN, EVERY TIME I DIE, and COMEBACK KID has given them a massive and devote fan base eagerly anticipating the release of this album.

"The Years To Come" is an honest album that vocalist Nick Murphy describes as "dedicated to seeing the good that's left in the world, and the importance of maintaining hope in humanity". Nodes of Ranvier are ready to take this message of hope to the masses with their grooving metallic riffs and anthem-like choruses on "The Years To Come".

REVIEWS

"It is the ability to bring together screaming hardcore with pseudo-indie rock that makes them stick out. Most bands would fall on their face when attempting these stylistic leaps, but NOR walk through it all with grace." Exclaim Magazine

"Really melodic metalcore with no boundaries, and whatever boundaries you try to put up for them, I'm sure they will destroy in a second. The guitars and vocals are creative and mind blowing. The lyrics are totally inspirational, it hits me straight in the heart.." Blunt Magazine
